

Analysis of the previous iteration

During this week, Linda worked as project manager.

All groups presented the Inception phase of their projects, and Sofia held the presentation of our project. She also presented our peer review of group Futurum's Inception material.

We had a customer meeting with RedRiver, and showed how the application looked so far.

We worked on the documentation before the final hand in of the Inception phase to the course management.

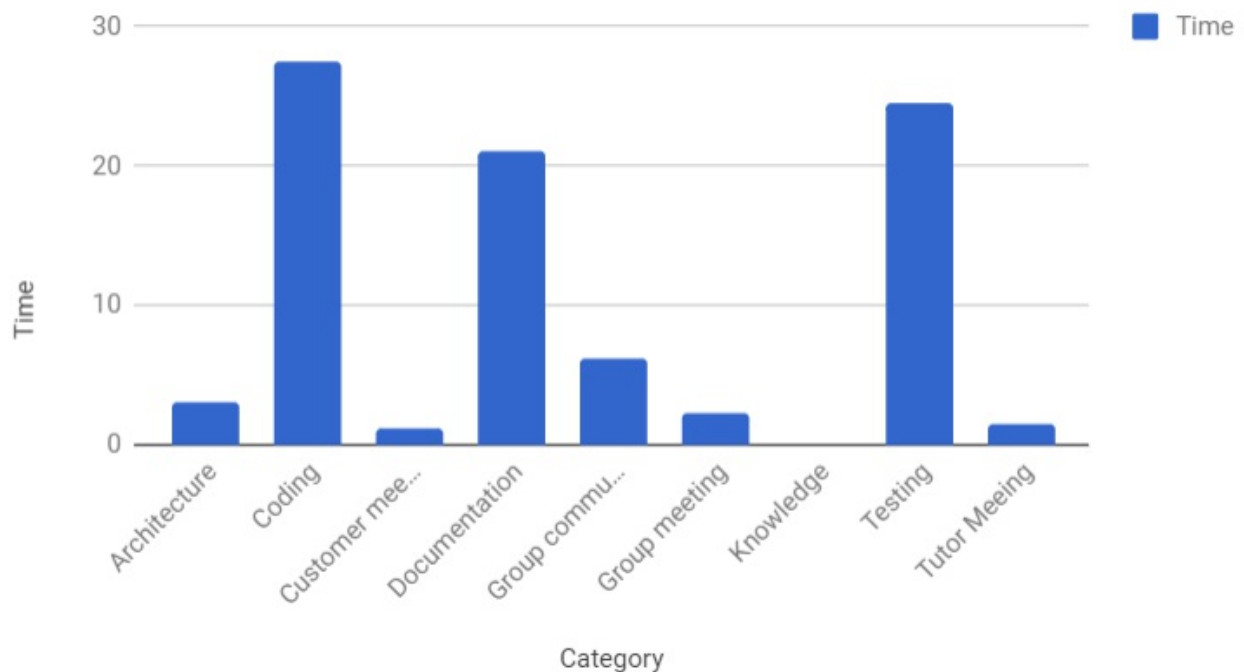

Our testing has really come under way, with Jest tests for the front end and test reports.

Requirements F1-F4 in the product backlog have gone from "Started" to "Implemented".
